

Asui Tsuyu, aka “Froppy,” aka “Tsu”, is quite different from all the other gals in UA. She's blunt to a fault, has much more inhuman features both physically as well as internally, and she croaks like a frog all the time. For Tsu, burping comes very naturally to the point where she doesn't even comment any time she burps. She's able to swallow small objects whole due to the way her body works, causing anything that slides down her much slicker gullet (than the average human's) to slip down effortlessly. As a result, a lot of air tends to go down with her meals. Air that she frequently and casually burps back up.

Tsu doesn't really care what most people think. For her, a good burp is simply so her stomach won't bother her. Granted, she has a pretty strong stomach in terms of just how much she can eat and how constantly she's leaping around during training or combat, but it stirs easily. So burping is often more out of necessity than anything else so she won't get nauseous.

Far as her burps are concerned, Tsu's tend to be on the wetter, more gurgle-y side. You can almost hear something bubbling in her throat with each burp she gives, especially the longer ones. Any time she swallows a heavier object whole, she'll quickly gulp it down, huff, and let off a wet burp out from the corner of her maw as casually as she would a ribbit and she won't comment on it beyond that. And when she has to regurgitate the object back up, Tsu will give a thick swallow and a really wet, gross-sounding burp will roll out before morphing into her long, slimy tongue expelling the object from her stomach.

There are times when Tsu has an excess of air in her stomach if she ate her food too fast, which usually tends to make her normally flat midsection look just ever so slightly bloated. This tends to make her really gassy and uncomfortable. She'll be off in a corner somewhere, rubbing her belly firmly with her long, amphibious fingers, huffing and moaning as she pushes out one wet, gurgling burp after another. Tsu will keep burping to push out as much air as possible, but there's always just one big bubble stuck in her gut. She forces more and more eruptions out, until finally, Tsu's throat hitches, and she lurches with a really long, wet, throaty burp that trails off as if it's not all coming out...until she slaps her belly hard and forces out a surprisingly thicker belch that's been dying to come out all that time.

That's probably the only time Tsu actually reacts to a good burp because after pockets like that get expelled, she'll croak and then moan with abject euphoria, slowly caressing her relieved tummy and savoring how much better it feels after finally getting that pocket of air out of her system. Her stomach will also be notably deflated, back down to its normally tight, flat frame.

Tsu's anatomy is more amphibious than it already lets on too. Her organs can stretch out as needed to accommodate a lot, which is why her throat is so slick and allows her to swallow sizable objects. But her stomach can also expand tremendously to house not only these objects but a LOT of food. Tsu seldom overeats the way Mina, Uraraka and Momo do, but she can put them to shame.

Her stomach capacity is unmatched by nearly every student in UA, simply due to how far her stomach can stretch out. As such, in the rare occasions where Tsu is really hungry and overeats, she'll even swallow her own meals whole, just lashing her tongue out and gulping entire entrees down like grapes. This tends to leave Tsu with a perfectly rounded and lush balloon belly, one that jiggles and sloshes heavily, and gives her some of her deepest, wettest belches period.

If Tsu is overstuffed, she'll punctuate the end of her meal with a surprisingly heavy-sounding belch, one that comes from the deepest depths of her gut, then she'll ribbit and hiccup groggily before slumping back wearily, her big belly jiggling from the motion. In an overstuffed state, she'll slowly caress her round tummy in tender, soothing circles as it gurgles intensely within her grasp. Her long, frog-like fingers wrapping around the near-entirety of her bloat and gripping into it, causing her to release thick, raunchy belches from the corner of her maw the whole time she's trying to settle her stomach.

But if Habuko is nestled up against Tsu when she's so overstuffed, then Habuko will knead her girlfriends weighty belly firmly, and coax up some really hefty-sounding belches out of her. Sometimes, Habuko's rubbing will stir the gas in Tsu's belly up, letting it bubble and churn inside of her until eventually, that bubble worms its way up her throat, and expels itself as a really lengthy eructation, one that rolls out of Tsu so hard to leave her breathless. Usually, the rubbing just causes those sort of rolling burps to steadily just erupt out of Tsu casually mid-rub. Habuko doesn't mind. She actually finds Tsu's burping really attractive, given her own more reptilian tendencies.

On the few occasions where Tsu has gotten REALLY bloated to where her belly gets so big that she has to spread her thick thighs out to give her gut some breathing room, Habuko will knead and press on Tsu's ample dome, forcing out some truly big, guttural belches. Those are the kinds of eruptions that are wet but still has some serious POWER behind them. Sometimes, Tsu is so bloated that her belly actually jiggles from the sheer force of the eruption, but only if what she's eaten has digested enough. This is due to her more amphibious internal anatomy giving her a much stretchier set of organs and skin that's more durable than it seems on the surface.

In terms of how Tsu reacts to the reactions of others, mostly, it's very casual and understated. If she's around another girl who thinks it's gross that she just burped, she'll just carry on as if nothing happened. Usually, if she gets a laugh out of someone, she'll also still carry on as if nothing happened because most of the time, when she burps, it's out of necessity. But from time to time, she has been known to let one loose just for kicks. She doesn't act like it, but she does like seeing her friends laugh, and she has a lot better comedic timing than she seems. So if there's an awkward situation, Tsu may intentionally just let out a random burp to confuse her friends and cause them to break into laughter just out of sheer confusion and absurdity.

If she's around Mineta, who is being his usual, sexist self, and decrying girls who burp as a huge turn off, she will make it a point to burp as loud as she possibly can right in his ear just to gross him out and make him stop perving out around her...if only for a little while.

While she has a strong stomach, she is prone to getting nauseous if she uses her quirk too much or if she's constantly flicking her tongue in and out, since that tends to take in a lot of air all at once, which can unsettle her tummy. Or if she eats something that really doesn't agree with her stomach. Whenever she does get nauseous, she'll rub her gurgling stomach with one hand and hold a hand over her mouth with the other as she muffles some really wet, nasty-sounding burps. They don't have heft to them, but they roll out of her for a prolonged period of time and have this gross, bubbly quality; the sort of burps that sound like they're really straining just to get out. She holds those in because even she doesn't like the way they sound or feel, and is always worried that if she burps too hard in her nauseous state, more than air is going to come up.

She'll usually drink tea to settle her tummy in instances like that. She used to drink Ginger Ale but quickly learned that was a one-way ticket to embarrassment. Due to her anatomy, any liquid she drinks will go down her throat much quicker than the average person. Which means if she has a soda, whether she intends to or not, she's going to end up chugging the whole can down in one effortless go. And in doing so, the end result can give her some HUGE burps. The kinds that are short but blast out of her so hard that even YOU can feel the force. And it's not just one either. Tsu will expel a quick but DEAFENING belch, then almost immediately let out two or three big ones, albeit never as huge as that first monster.

Usually, when Tsu burps like that, she'll quickly blush and cover her mouth, barely muffling a few afterburps. It's the only instance where she ever gets embarrassed by her burps because she's a quiet gal and sounds THAT loud just blasting out of her maw, completely beyond her control is a little humiliating, regardless of how others around her react, or even if she's alone. She's someone who likes bodily control just due to the way her body functions so differently from everyone else. So losing control like that for any reason is always a little uncomfortable for her.

There's no denying, however, that her tummyache is cleared up almost instantly by downing Ginger Ale and explosively belching the ache right on out like that. And if she's around Habuko, at the very least, she'll be indulging her snake-headed girlfriends very noisy and crude little fetish.

It's also the only time she'll ever be able to burp-talk, is if she's really gassy from soda consumption. But she doesn't do it on-command. It's one short, gaseous blast of a single phrase, then maybe a word or two, which never comes out as strong. Again, she only does something like that for Habuko in private.