DANCING SAKURA

Shortsword, uncommon (requires attunement)

Some cultures believe that seeing the blossom of the sakura flowers is a sign of luck and good fortune. For some, this is true. This magic sword is made of Taiō, a magic gem filled with radiant energy that some believe the sun god himself created. The radiant magic energy within the sword empowers the enchantment scribed on the blade. You have a +1 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon.

Sakura Blossom. Once a day, as a bonus action, you can speak this sword command word to awaken the cherry blossoms within the blade. For 1 minute, every time you attack a creature using this magic sword, it releases several sakura petals that float around you. As a bonus action, you can direct the floating petals toward a creature you can see within 30ft of you. That creature gains advantage on the next ability check, Attack roll, or saving throw it makes until the end of your next turn.
