

Sibling Rivalry

By Soul-Controller

With her widowed father Paul's 60th birthday fast approaching, 23-year-old Kelly was eager to get him a special gift to celebrate such a momentous occasion. Given the fact that she was barely scraping by financially due to the cost of graduate school, the woman knew that there was no way that she could compare to the lavish gift that her 34-year-old brother James would surely get her father (which would most likely be a Rolex given his high salary as an attorney and the conversation she had secretly heard James having with his wife during their last family dinner the week prior). However, there was one thing that James didn't have in comparison to Kelly - the ability to cast spells and summon ancient magic.

Back when she was in high school, Kelly first got into the occult when she was going through the all too familiar goth phase of adolescence. However, while most people ended up getting rid of those tokens of their embarrassing past, Kelly found herself diving deeper into the occult world. Soon enough, the woman had traded her entire collection of YA novels for an entire bookcase full of spellbooks and other guides to the magical and mystical realms.

Upon heading to college and signing up for a horror club, Kelly ended up finding a trio of like-minded women looking for a fourth to join their ranks. It seemed as though Kelly was the ideal missing piece, because with just one session of practicing witchcraft together, the brand new coven were able to successfully conduct trials of levitation and shapeshifting. Although all of the coven members ultimately graduated and moved forward with their lives, the magical connection between all of them remained and thus allowed each woman to still cast spells, create potions, and conduct similar trials on their own.

Although Kelly originally tried to keep this aspect of her life a secret, moving back home with her dad so she could save money while attending graduate school ultimately led to her dad finding out about her special gift. Given the shock of what had occurred, Kelly was understanding yet still quite annoyed when she found out that Paul had ultimately told James about her abilities. Luckily, the secret remained between the family, but each birthday and holiday ultimately led to them asking Kelly to do a magic-related task to help better their lives. While James almost always used Kelly to get potions and spells created that would help him have continued success in his law career to the point of being popular for his win rate, Paul wasn't as desperate for vain things like money and notoriety. Instead, he asked for simple remedies that could help try to hinder the grueling effects of aging such as a potion to eliminate all back pain and to keep his metabolism fast enough to help him maintain his surprisingly buff physique.

To add more excitement to his upcoming and quite noteworthy birthday, Paul opted to not wish for anything specific from Kelly. Instead, he wanted her to come up with something that she personally wanted to do for her father, which she quite appreciated. After consulting through her spellbooks and potion guides for something fun and interesting to surprise her father, the woman gleefully smiled as she found two entries that piqued her interest.

The first thing was an entry that allowed the witch to create a potion that turned back the hands of time on a chosen individual where they became a specific age and gained a specific physique. Given the pain she had heard father complain about ad nauseum, it seemed like a no-brainer to give her dad a second chance at not being retired. On top of this, it had been years since Kelly's mom had died and Paul had still never attempted to put himself back out in the dating scene. In her mind, she believed that his newfound vitality would be the push he needed to finally give love a shot once again.

Secondly, there was a reality change spell that Kelly found that would ultimately allow her father to get a second chance at youth. Upon casting it so it went into effect after the consumption of the potion, it would cause reality to shift where the 60-year-old Paul Prescott was no more as the world would only recognize the younger Paul instead, who would end up becoming the sibling of James and Kelly.

After thinking through the plan one more time and realizing that it was the perfect gift idea, the woman immediately went to work gathering the desired ingredients. Luckily, the potion was rather simple with ingredients that she already had in her possession. The only thing that Kelly needed to get was the hair of the desired subject, which was an easy thing to grab after one trip to the bathroom and inspection of her father's hair brush. With her black cauldron bubbling, the witch dropped the ingredients and began to stir the pot while calmly stating the desired effects of the potion. Drinking the potion would cause the individual to turn into a 30-year-old version of Paul, which would turn him into the middle child in between Kelly and James. On top of this, the drinker would gain Paul's peak musculature as reality altered around the drinker to make it all official.

Upon finishing the two tasks and transferring the potion into a small vial that she would slip into Paul's drink before they did their toast, the woman was quite exhausted from becoming a conduit for so much magical energy and thus quickly fell asleep while envisioning the surprise on her dad's face the next afternoon when she surprised him.

* * * * *

The day of the party had finally arrived and Kelly was understandably quite excited to surprise her father with her gift. As James finally arrived though, the two siblings engaged in a similar bout of rivalry as they quietly argued about who had the best gift for their father. Feeling quite proud of herself for what she had come up with, Kelly was quite cocky as she told James that she had a gift that was better than that Rolex watch that he had gotten for their father. Upon realizing that she knew about his gift, James' smile immediately dropped as he watched Kelly take a celebratory swig of champagne out of her plastic cup before putting it down.

With his eyes narrowed in anger, he observed as Kelly grabbed another plastic cup and smirked while pulling out the potion from her pocket. Upon uncorking it, the girl quickly poured the contents of the potion into the drink before grabbing the champagne bottle and pouring some in to cover up the secret potion. As she turned to her side to call out for her dad so they could begin the celebration, Kelly was blissfully unaware of James' quick and conniving action of switching the places of the two cups.

Once their father arrived, Kelly handed him the cup that she assumed to have the potion in it before going through a long toast to celebrate her dad making it to 60 and talking about how much she loved him. Upon finishing, the trio smiled widely (all for different reasons) and lifted their glasses up before tilting their heads back and drinking the bubbly alcohol.

So as Kelly eagerly looked towards her father to witness his changes, a sudden cramp that emerged in her stomach caused her to grunt and groan. Although she knew that something was wrong, it didn't immediately click as to what was going on. But as she turned to James and saw the wide smirk on her face, it quickly became clear that he had swapped her drink with Paul's. Gasping as she looked down at her hands, the woman watched as her long fingernails slowly pulled back into her flesh, getting trimmed into an obvious masculine style.

Continuing to look down in shock as her father asked what was going on, Kelly's labored breaths interrupted her speech as she explained her intended gift for her dad and how James had gotten jealous and swapped their cups. While she continued to do so, she was oblivious to the fact that her height was increasing several inches as her bones extended, giving her a height of 6'2" rather than her former 5'5".

All at once, the woman's dainty began to increase in muscle, leading to her slender arms gaining a firm set of biceps that grew so big that the sleeves of her shirt ended up becoming too tight and tearing. This type of response by her clothing continued as her thighs lost the prominent gap she once had as a sizable pair of quads emerged and caused the sides of her black jeans to burst out along the seams. While his quads and abs formed into place, the biggest area that caught her attention was her chest. While the girl didn't have a sizable pair of breasts by any means, it was still quite troublesome to watch her B cups pull into her chest until she was left completely flat-chested. She knew what would soon replace it, but it was still rather alarming to watch as two meaty slabs of pecs pushed out of her flesh and caused her shirt to become tight across the chest once more (although not in the way she expected).

As she took a moment to curse at her brother for his stupid trick, the sudden deepening of her voice caused Kelly to move her wider hands up to her throat and feel as a prominent Adam's apple emerged and shifted her light and airy voice into something much more masculine. With this change completed, the transformation moved from the neck-up as a tingle across her face indicated that her facial features were changing.

Given the fact that she already closely resembled her father, the main changes in this area came in the form of her nose widening a bit and shifting in shape to be more prominent along with her round jaw becoming more angular and wider to just turn her into an Adonis. The woman's long brunette hair was growing shorter by the second, being pulled back into her scalp until she was left with a short hairstyle that worked well with her angular face. As her cheekbones rose and her eyebrows grew a bit bushier, there was one final change that emphasized the shift of Kelly's face into something more masculine - the sudden emergence of a thick five-o'clock shadow.

Moving back down to her body, her soft and supple ass shifted in both density and shape as her glutes gained an impressive amount of muscle so she now had a prominent yet firm bubble butt. With this finished, there was only one area left that would fully signify her gender swap. Given the fact that her pants were now quite skintight, the woman immediately began to feel the genitalia change as a thick cock pushed forth from her pussy and pressed against the straining denim. Kelly was utterly terrified and disgusted by her new genitalia, especially as she took a look down at what she estimated to be at least 8 inches of thick manhood and realized that it was the same cock that her father had! With only a small portion of her pussy remaining, this was ultimately sealed up as an empty sac of skin pressed forth underneath the sizable cock. As two balls slowly dropped into place, Kelly's transformation into a 30-year-old version of her father was complete.

Although Kelly was utterly grossed out by becoming a younger version of her father, the woman tried her best to keep herself in good spirits. As she chuckled while telling her dad that this wasn't how she intended for his party to go, she tried her best to take it all in stride to not allow her brother to win. He wanted to prank her and get a reaction out of her, so she figured that if she just played it cool and went along with what was going on, she would ultimately be declared victorious in this petty feud.

Given the state of her tattered clothing, Paul moved with haste back into his bedroom as he grabbed some clothes for Kelly to change into. Although it was quite awkward undressing and taking in the sight of her buff masculine physique, the woman couldn't deny that it was rather fun to lift her arm up and flex the prominent biceps that she now had. With this new discovery in mind, the woman quickly pulled on the pair of athletic shorts and tank top before going out to see her brother and father.

Once she was there, she continued her attempt at playing it cool by asking to take a family photo to celebrate the bizarre mixup. Paul and James were at first confused with Kelly's request to do a shirtless photo of them all flexing, but Paul was more than willing to go along with it as he headed over to set his phone against the wall and set up the photo timer. While he did so, Kelly couldn't resist looking at James' pasty and not as well-defined body and taunting him for just how malnourished he looked in comparison to her and their father.

As Kelly smiled while tensing her new muscles, the woman seemed to forget about just how thorough a reality shift spell was. While she still had her attraction towards men, it seemed as though everything else in her life had secretly changed while she was out enjoying the events of the party. By the time she returned to her bedroom later that night, she would be shocked to discover that all of her occult books and witchcraft-related items were no longer there. Instead, a small set of dumbbells and a BowFlex now sat in the corner. In time, she would soon learn that her new name was Keegan, a 27-year-old personal trainer who had a profitable career as a gay influencer and OnlyFans creator.

Despite how badly she may have wanted to go back to her old life though, this would be impossible due to the fact that her ability to perform magic had been permanently severed due to her new reality. Instead of being an engineering student joining the horror club in college, the brand new hunk was a kinesiology student who instead focused on athletic extracurriculars that involved hooking up with his teammates or coaches in the locker room. So while she originally tried to have the best intentions of giving her dad a new life, one small prank by her brother had completely destroyed that and her life in the process and there was nothing she could do about it anymore...