

Role Exchange

Written by "Ina Izumi"

It seems that everything is over for Iris and Naomi, a young couple of demon hunter girls. They have been hunting demons together for several years for fun and as training, since they have access to a one-of-a-kind dimension in which they can enter and exit as they want and which is full of demons, although they are usually all scattered and they are not concentrated in large groups, or so it seemed until now. After so long in which Iris, Naomi and other demon hunters were hunting and destroying demons with impunity and without the demons being able to defend themselves, since they are at that point and after so much training, stronger than them at least individually. After so much suffering, pain and losses that the demons have suffered when being whipped every day by their cruel executioners in their own dimension, in their own home, where they do not bother anyone, after so much, the demons have decided to organize and Act.

As time has passed, Iris in particular has become famous in the demon world for her particular sadism and because, instead of killing demons directly, she enjoys first destroying their powers, with her legendary magic katana that provokes only magic damage if its wielder wants it, regardless of the physical damage it can cause. The katana has been passed down for generations until one day Iris "found" it when she was in high school, since then she has been tirelessly hunting demons for, mainly and her greatest objective, to subdue them and play with their prey, torturing and reducing them. to simple toys and servile slaves born to be the victim of their torture in their sick pastime.

On the other hand, even though Naomi is not so well known and the demons do not hold that much grudge against her in particular, the demons also see her as a threat to her, to her magic bat with which she hits the demons she hunts, and to the great strength, almost superhuman, that Naomi has to hit with her bat. In addition, Naomi is regularly accompanied by Iris, since Iris considers her very weak and always accompanies her so that she does not fall prey to some demons, so for the demons, Naomi must pay for the same sins as Iris, even if Naomi she does not participate in the endless tortures to which she subjects the demons they have hunted.

So, the next time Iris and Naomi were found within their dimension making slaves, the demons have prepared and allied with each other some of the most powerful demons of their dimension, who command powerful and numerous armies, armies that they didn't hesitate to use for their great feat: to finally finish with Iris and Naomi to give a clear message to people from other dimensions and teach them that they should not mess with them and that any invasion or abuse attempt will not be forgiven by the demons nor will he be taken lightly, and he will be punished with the full weight of his powers and all possible brutality. This has turned out to be a terrible event for Iris and Naomi, as they have just caught a couple of demons, which has caught the attention of all the others, they are now surrounded by the powerful hordes of famous and prominent infernal lords.

After long hours of violent and destructive battle, in which Iris and Naomi have killed a large part of the unified army of infernal lords, but they are so many that it is impossible to win them all, while Iris and Naomi are already very tired and not strength remains: as if it were their martyrdom from a Homeric epic, they have been totally exhausted in the face of the numerical superiority of the demons, after having defeated at least half of the numerous army. Even despite their defeat, they were still on guard, waiting for them to end their suffering, but, unfortunately for Iris and Naomi, the demons did not seek to destroy them after defeating them, if not, make them pay for so much blood and therefore time in which Iris has subjected them to her massive torture.

Then the infernal lords quickly subdue them and strip them of their weapons. One of them grabs Iris by her face and stares into her eyes, forcing her to match her gaze. Iris, greatly weakened, cannot resist the heavy gaze of the infernal lord and his powerful hypnotic ability. Little by little Iris, after going through a brief period of resistance to mind control, she begins to fall in love with the look of the infernal lord, a look so deep and irresistible that it makes her feel in an infinite and magical summer sunset. On the other hand, Naomi, who tried to flee while Iris fell victim to mind control, suddenly a powerful flying demon from the sky threw her magic threads, subduing Naomi from all her limbs and forcing her to throw her magic bat, leaving Naomi immobile. no matter how much resistance he put up, quickly realizing that from one moment to another he has lost the ability to move of his own free will, leaving his body hanging by the threads.

After many hours, and after several procedures of physical and mental torture that Iris had to go through, the infernal lord dresses her as a maid and will take her to his infernal palace to serve her and to continue playing with her whenever she wants, while she nods the head and accepts willingly, bowing and smiling for his new master, after a long process of brainwashing

Meanwhile, Naomi, who has also been tortured and her clothes have also been changed to a more suitable one, while the demon who has subdued her as if she were a puppet and uses her in a puppet show to the delight and morbidity of the other vengeful demons, meanwhile, throw food and other objects at him to compound his humiliation. Meanwhile, Naomi, who has had less luck than Iris, since Iris is at least so brainwashed and in a drowsy state, Naomi is forced to witness everything that happens consciously and without being able to move, so she is terrified witnessing the grotesque performance of which she takes part from the eyes of a puppet, wondering if this has really been her end, or what will they do with her later.

