

Plastic

Written by "Ina Izumi"

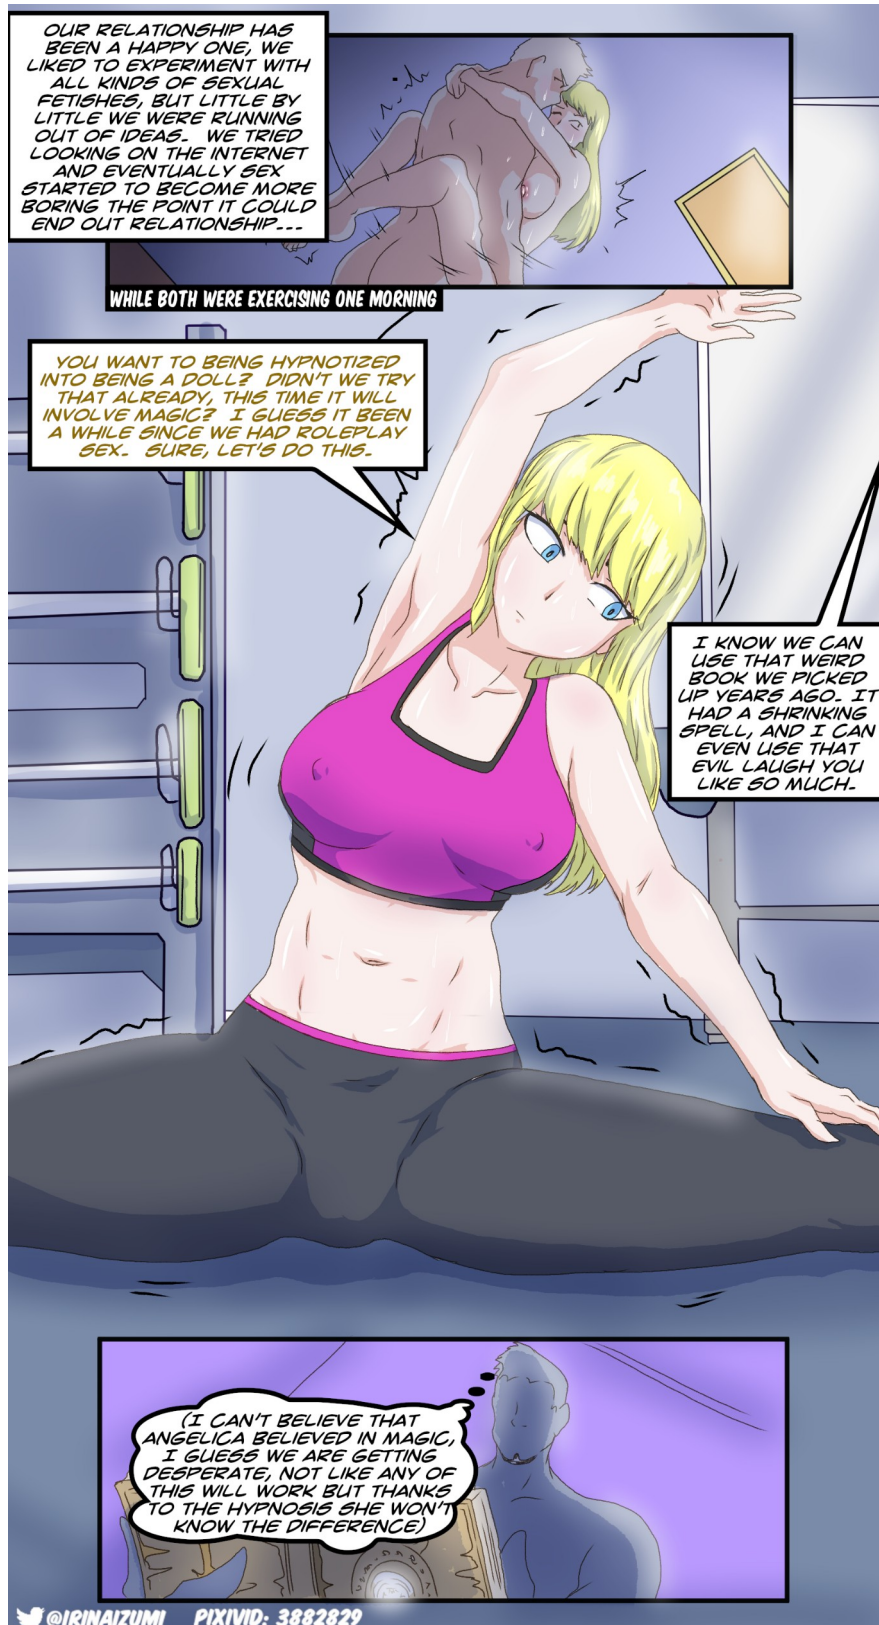

Angelica and Willy, two young adults in their twenties, had already been in a relationship for 2 years and both were very happy together, especially because they both have a very free conception of sexuality and always like to experiment with new ways of having sex or having fun doing it to livin' it in the most pleasurable way possible, no matter how fetishistic the idea is, they have already done and tried all kinds of different sexual practices, they even finished all the Kamasutra positions in a week when they first met. They can't love each other more and live more perfectly from their perspective, because sometimes it is very difficult to find a partner with the same hobbies, while the biggest hobby for both is having sex and sports. At the same time, for Angelica, it is very difficult to choose the clothes she wears because her parents always chose her clothes all the time while she was living under their roof, even when she was already of age. After meeting and getting together with Willy, it was Willy who took the place of her parents and is now the one who chooses the clothes, helping Angelica in her deep problem to make decisions on her own because she is very indecisive.

On the other hand, it has been a miracle for Willy to find such a faithful partner who will accept the free union and who is also open-minded, or at least open-minded enough to try all kinds of fetishistic and novel sexual practices that, at times, would seem abnormal or strange to other people. This has made them both become very close and, although they are not yet married as they do not believe in the institution of marriage, they love each other deeply and it will be very difficult for them to separate. Their relationship is idyllic, if not basically perfect.

However, as the days go by, it becomes more and more difficult for them to find new ways of having sex. As they have already tried basically everything, and they quickly got bored of everything they are learning, it has become increasingly difficult to innovate in bed, which would complicate their relationship on several occasions making it monotonous, because if their relationship is based on innovation in sex, not finding new practices and always repeating the same ones in a cyclical way has caused a crisis in their relationship, not finding new practices and always repeating the same ones in a cyclical way has caused a crisis in their relationship, which has led them both in a hurry to find new ways to give pleasure and ecstasy to each other, even though at least they still have the sport to understand each other while looking for new ways to have sex or to provoke sexual pleasure.

One day, while Angelica is working out hard stretching her long legs while wearing a black leotard and a little pink blouse, while Willy is resting and watching videos on the internet, he sees the striking resemblance Angelica has with an old music video of the 2000's, especially with that little pink blouse that highlights her big breasts. On the other hand, Willy notices in that music video that those actresses are pretending to be sporty Barbie's in a dollhouse in the form of a summer hotel with a swimming pool. That reminds Willy of some books he read long ago when he was a teenager browsing in his school library, about alchemy and magic spells. Willy never tried to do what was in that book, but he kept it and never returned it to the library, keeping it tucked away in some corner of the basement. He has never believed that such things really work, but he wonders, what if he shows it as a new fetishistic practice to Angelica to hypnotize her into being a Barbie doll and then pretending to use magic with whatever he finds in that book, turn her into a plastic doll?

Angelica being deeply induced into erotic hypnosis; she will not know the difference and will believe that she has really been shrunk and turned into a plastic doll even if the enchantment Willy does turns out to be a sham.

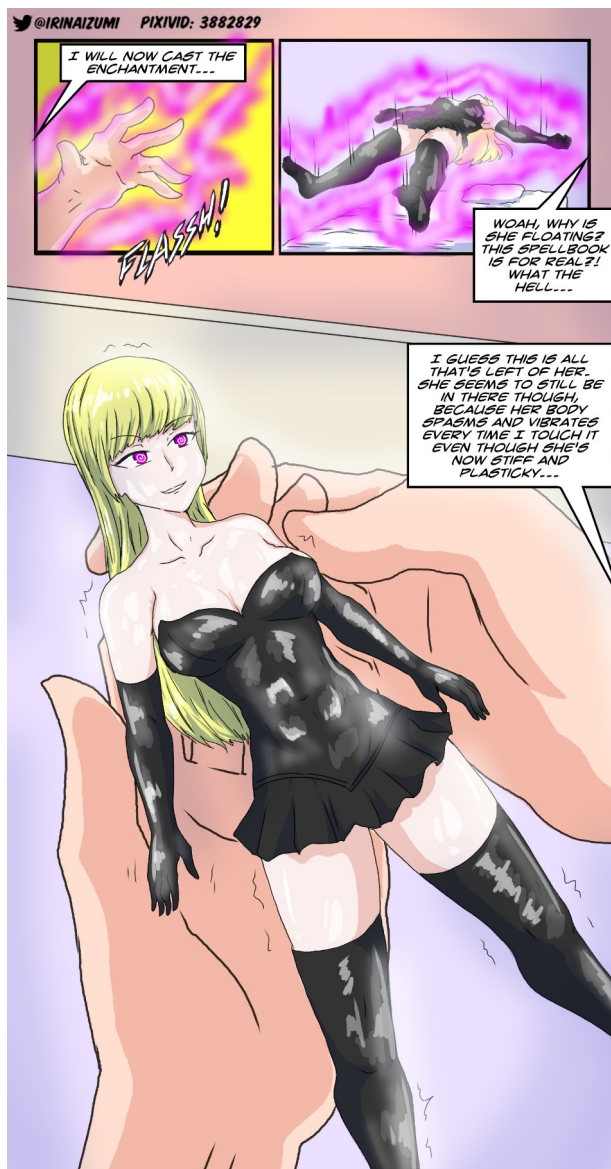

Willy then tells Angelica about his great idea, which makes Angelica's eyes sparkle. She had never heard of such a thing, but her mind is less rational and thinks that maybe magic does exist and that what Willy says could become a reality, on the other hand, she would love to try being a plastic doll, it sounds interesting, and just thinking about all the things Willy would do to her taking advantage of the big size he would have if she was turned into a little Barbie doll, makes Angelica inevitably reddened.

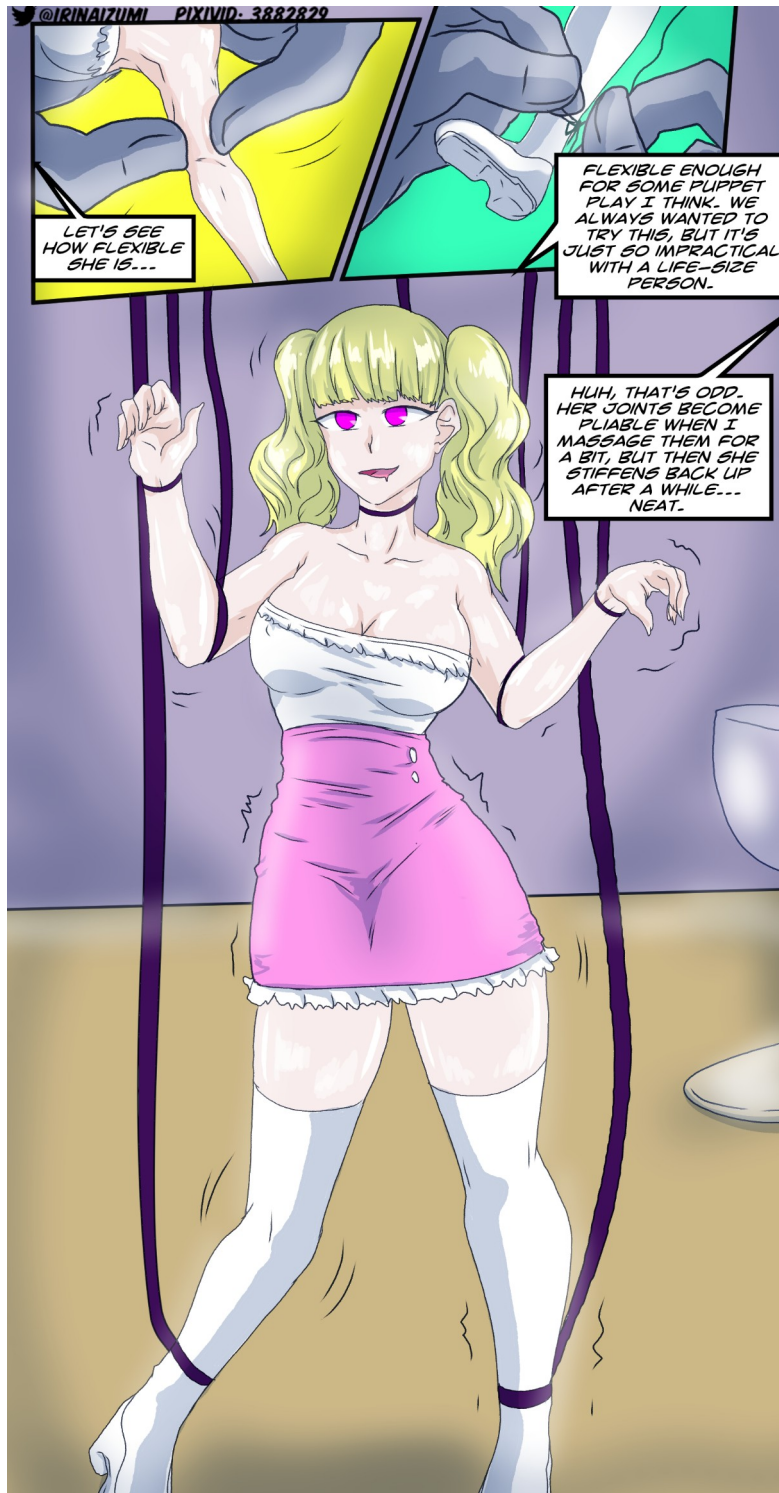

So, they get down to work and for the rest of the day they make preparations for their new sexual adventure. On the one hand Willy searches and finds that old book of spells, while Angelica searches for videos on hypnosis to become a doll on the internet, finding a huge variety of content that can be useful to her. Finally, at night, Angelica is sitting lying in bed wearing a black latex leotard with a vibrator underneath looking up at a screen they have installed on the ceiling especially for that hypnosis stuff, while she watches a spiral and listens directly to a wireless headset in her head to the long process of hypnosis. Six hours after deep hypnosis, Angelica lies totally limp on the bed repeating that she is a doll repeatedly. So, Willy sees that the time has come to cast the spell.

For this spell, Willy has been researching the book for many hours to learn how to cast compound spells. The one he will apply is supposed to shrink Angelica and at the same time turn her skin and tissues into plastic. It doesn't seem to matter to Willy whether that would make Angelica an inert object or not, due to the utter certainty that the magic doesn't exist and that the spell won't cause any change. To his surprise and bad, or good luck, depending on perspective, Willy, as he casts the spell, sees a thick cloud of purple smoke surround Angelica. The cloud gradually dissipates after a few seconds, Angelica disappearing, leaving only a small, delicate, excited doll identical to Angelica. For a moment Willy is frightened and wonders if it is not some dream or hallucination. On the other hand, Willy has no idea if Angelica is still well, so he takes her hands and caresses her body. Apparently, Angelica is still alive in some way, because even if she can't move or speak, her body has some involuntary spasms, her eyes have some nervous twitches, and her face is reddening. If Angelica is fine, besides she showed her genuine interest in experimenting being a doll and she willingly accepted all that process believing that she would really be turned into a doll, even if Willy believed that the magic was not going to work and it would remain anecdotal, then he proceeded with the experiment.

Willy couldn't help but be curious and interested as to whether Angelica was flexible enough, so he then proceeded to tie some black ribbons on her to play with her as a puppet. Apparently, that turned Angelica on a lot, as she had never tried anything like that before and feeling so helpless while a powerful and giant Willy plays with her by pulling the ribbons like strings, turns her on immensely. For this Angelica was dressed in another costume, with a little pink skirt, a white blouse, white stockings and pink high heeled slippers, an outfit more suitable for a Barbie doll.

The next day, at dawn, after spending the whole morning playing with the doll that had been Angelica before, while he was thinking about how to return Angelica to normality from her current state of Barbie doll, he came up with something even more exciting and daring. Willy remembered having seen in a toy store a Barbie doll with a sports uniform very similar to that of the actress in the music video he saw on the internet, so without thinking about the consequences he went and bought that doll, and then went back to his car and changed Angelica's clothes again, had her wrapped in the packaging mold and put her in the box of the doll he bought... Not without first putting Angelica's cell phone inside the box in the back so he could locate where she would be taken to in case she was bought by accident. Then Willy quickly goes to leave Angelica, the barbie doll, in the store back as if it were any doll among many other dolls, to the point of going a little unnoticed, even if you took attention, you could see that Angelica was a doll of higher quality and more realistic than a conventional Barbie doll.

