

PAGE 216

Last page we talked about the hybrid's relationships and how they worked after the lab. 2 options:

Talk about hybrids not getting pregnant

Talk about reopening therapy sessions for the hybrids.

Talking about hybrids not getting pregnant takes us to fel and al back again and a little conflict about it. Fel should go to him like "AL DO YOU WANT KIDS?" And al would freak out, thinking she's already pregnant or something. And then fel would tell him "chill out i can't get pregnant, i just wanted to know" and then Al would explain her all the implications of a child in a western society. Perhaps at the end fel figures out she wanted something to look up for, and Al suggests a cat.

Having al's parents visit would be hell of fun.

FRAME 1

Pawsy pulls out an envelope from the fur of her chest. both are sitting towards the bar.

PAWSY:

Oh! By the way, I think you need to check this out. It's this week's den memo. you can subscribe to it via email, you know?

FEL:

Oh!

FRAME 1.1

Fel reads it, there's random giberrish, and then in bold type, really huge: in other words, according to our intel: WE CAN'T HAVE BABIES! With goofy ms office wordart.

FRAME 2

Fel is squishing a milk carton, folding the top and the bottom and taking all the air out.

PAWSY:

I don't know, i think you should talk about it with Al, don't you think?

FEL:
Hmm, i guess. We've never really talked about it...

FRAME 3

Fel comes in. Al turns to the door while sitting down, puts his arm on top of the couch. Fel has a worried look in her face. al should be in the background, looking towards the door. Fel should be in the foreground, opening the door and watching towards al.

AL:
Hey puss! You're back! How was work-
-

FEL:
Hun, Do you want to have kids?

FRAME 4

Same everything, except Al lifts the remote towards the tv and turns it off, face goes serious and slightly scared. (al assumes she's pregnant already)

AL:
(turns off tv) have a seat.