

1. setup and MC announcing competition, lineup of contestants
  - a. Start with an external view of the event: could possibly drag out intro by having it start from a media satellite and showing the island from a satellite view (bonus points for having a looming shape darkening the water at the edge of the panel).
  - b. Introduction of competition including title and competition name (The Beachbodycraft Pageant. Sponsored by Veta Shapeware, your best asset for making your assets the best they can be.)
  - c. The MC is introduced along with a showing of the contestants: a line of boobwalls arranged on a stage behind them, all wearing swimsuits with contestant tags and smiling for the camera. Need to settle on size range for the contestants, but mostly they are all within the same basic range.
  - d. Basic introduction as the MC opens the show explaining the premise of the body sculpting and modding: there has to be an element of it being very much like a bodybuilder competition - its a measure of skill and talent as well as resources: just getting a drug to make bigger magically isn't the root of it, boobology requires a lot of diet, exercise, and discipline to gain and maintain size as well as maintain shape and skin. It's a lot of work.
2. introducing former champion, now small by comparison or just average talks about her daughter wanting to compete also
  - a. The former champion is on the small end compared to the contestants. Possibly smaller than anyone competing. Very "mom" shaped overall and cheerfully greeting crowd and MC, need to really emphasize charisma with the Former Champion.
3. conversation about private island raising her daughter
  - a. MC and Champion talk about how she hasn't been on the stage since she retired 20(?) years ago to raise her daughter. Rumors about her living on a private island with her family.
  - b. Champion mentions that she brought her daughter along with her but she is running a little bit late and should be here any minute.
  - c. Asking if her daughter has any interest in following in her mother's footsteps, and the former champion says she has been wanting to compete but has been really self conscious about her progress and decided not to compete this year. "Personally I think she would be a shoe-in, but this is important to her."
4. daughter arrives, talks to MC about how she was going to compete this year but felt self conscious about competing when she "hasnt taken it seriously"
  - a. Daughter arrives as a massive, looming shape appears eclipsing the beach
  - b. Mother makes some kind of comment about private island is actually just her daughter? Not sure how to work that into dialogue unless the MC makes a nervous joke about misunderstanding.
  - c. Line of contestants are completely intimidated and impressed...aroused? Do some variable expressions and reactions.
  - d. Daughter is self conscious, when asked by the MC says she didn't want to compete this year because she has mostly been working on her own this whole time, is still just an amateur and didn't want to compete until she found a trainer and “took it seriously so she wasn’t disrespecting her competition”. Everyone pointedly stares at her size (not hard, not much else to look at that cardinal direction).

5. golden apple

- a. Possible post-scene with the competition winner holding the trophy and saying she doesn’t feel right accepting the win when there is clearing someone else who deserves it.(?)
