

Chapter 48 - Power of Destruction.

I opened my eyes a short time later. I had fallen straight to the ground; my body was all sore. I stood up and checked my whole body to ensure I hadn't broken anything.

"I'm not hurt; maybe the Ki protected me?" The wound on my back was also gone. The large bloodstain was still on my clothes, but the injury had gone.

I hadn't used any recovery skills, so it's strange.

"Where am I? The jets don't seem to be flying around here." Trees surrounded me. It was a fairly dense forest, and there were no animals around. There was no sign of civilization either.

I tried to use Ki to fly, but even if I tried, nothing was happening. I could feel the Ki, but it was too weak. Unlike Ki, I can use Rias's abilities.

This relieved me a little, as I can use her abilities in emergencies.

"Let's go this way; I'll try to find somewhere to stay for now."

I walked for minutes and couldn't see anything but trees and more trees. After moving away from the place I fell, I started to see some animals, but just birds. I didn't have any animals that could be turned into food.

"What am I thinking? I won't need to hunt for food. I should sit and wait a while to get away from here." I never imagined being "lost" in a country like Russia.

Lost... "Wait, my cell phone." I took my hand to my pocket, and fortunately, my cell phone worked. Its screen was damaged, but it was still usable. Plus, it had internet.

God is amazing.

I opened the map and looked at the region I was currently in. I had crossed the entire country and was very close to Mongolia. As I imagined, I was very close to the border when I lost consciousness.

I opened the most reliable news site to see what was happening. The hole opened in the United States was still being "blocked," and the country was still on alert.

In addition to the United States, they also had news about what had happened in Russia. However.

[Gas Explosion causes over 1000 deaths in a small town in Russia.]

It was such a lying news story that it made me dizzy. But at least they hid what happened. How will they deal with it?

"This is worrying. The portals will appear in several different countries, and I'll have to deal with it. I don't think there's another person in the world like me who can help me deal with these portals."

'But now that a portal has appeared in Russia, the United States and Russia may work together.'

"HAHAHAHAHA." I laughed out loud at my thought. What is this crazy thing? It's easier for the two countries to fight and help the monsters destroy the world.

####

I had been in the middle of the forest for almost an hour. I couldn't get anywhere, so I sat and waited because they didn't know where I was.

I flew away from them very quickly. I'm sure they have no idea where I fell; they probably think I've already left the country.

"But wait... They have radars?" I looked up at the sky and began to hear a very recognizable sound. It was a loud, shrill sound that got louder and louder, and soon after, all the nearby trees swayed.

The leaves on the trees were almost all blown off, and I had gone practically deaf for a few seconds.

A jet had just passed over me. Not just one, both jets were here. I hid among the trees again because I didn't want to fight.

The only skills I can currently use are Rias' skills. Her most powerful skill could end up doing unnecessary damage.

"But in case it is necessary, I will use it." I took a deep breath and started paying attention to the sounds of the jets flying over the area. They knew I was around but didn't know exactly where I was.

They were flying very close to the trees.

"You know, you guys could get into an accident." I giggled and remained motionless in the same place. The sound of the jets had become quieter; they had moved away. However, I was utterly wrong.

Among the few leaves on the trees, I could see one of the jets flying straight toward the ground. An "explosion" happened right after that, and something flew toward me.

It was those damn missiles again.

"Damn it!" I couldn't get away from that. "Sorry, but I don't want to die here." Sweat dripped down my forehead; I had to think fast. And the only thing that came into my mind in less than five seconds was Rias' ability.

[Power of Destruction]

A demonic ability that allows me to disintegrate matter. Be it something living or inanimate. The name says it all; it causes a lot of destruction.

"But who cares?"

In my mind, every detail of the skill and its use was recorded, even how I should use it. So, in a few seconds, I was, using a completely immoral skill to stop a missile.

My whole body was glowing with red colour. Black rays and a dense aura enveloped my hands. Staring at the missile that seemed to be coming in slow motion, I waved both hands.

With one graceful movement, all that black aura was thrown. Swallowing everything in its path. I couldn't quite understand everything happening, but I could see it all disintegrating in front of my eyes.

The missile never hit the ground, and the jet that tried to escape was swallowed up. I killed the pilot.

Followed by this, a massive explosion occurred, causing an environmental catastrophe.